From: LeeAnn Pelham, Executive Director
Subject: AGENDA ITEM 5 – Status report on the Ethics Commission’s Proposed Budget For Fiscal Years 2017 and 2018

Summary This report provides a status update on the Ethics Commission’s proposed FY2017 and 2018 budget.

Action Requested This item is presented for the Commission’s information and discussion. No action is required.

Background

The Ethics Commission submitted to the Mayor’s Office its proposed FY 2017 and 2018 budget request, Blueprint for Accountability, on February 22, 2016.<sup>1</sup> Staff from the Commission met with the Mayor’s Chief of Staff and representatives from the Mayor’s Budget Office on March 11th, and will meet again with Budget Office staff on April 22. As the City’s budget development process continues to be underway, this report provides a status update on key developments to date with regard to the Commission’s budget request.

Item: Mayor’s Senior Fellow Submissions

During the annual budget cycle, the Mayor’s Budget Office offers the opportunity each fiscal year for departments to compete for a limited number of Senior Fellow positions. Senior Fellows are experienced individuals from outside of the government sector who are seeking to use their skills and expertise to make a difference in the public sector. Over the course of a year, Fellows tackle senior level opportunities identified by their sponsoring department and bring fresh insights to develop or accelerate projects with broad impact that would be challenging or impossible for departments to deliver, or delivery timely, absent those resources.

On February 22, the Commission submitted the maximum of three Senior Fellow proposals:

Strengthening Accountability with Online Technology. Creating practical tools and innovative user guides for consumption in a web- and social-media based environment that leverage demand for a more user-focused online experience. By enhancing the user-experience, the goal is to improve compliance, support accountability, and facilitate broad public understanding across a comprehensive range of governmental ethics requirements.

Leading Policy Practices. Accelerating the Commission's development and use of leading policy evaluation and engagement practices, including improved use of data in policy analysis and formulation, to ensure and sustain a framework of local political reform laws that is strong, workable, and effective.

Audit Effectiveness/"T3" Innovations. Developing and implementing a strategic audit plan to improve governmental accountability that includes new audit tools, standardized templates, and clear timelines for achieving more efficient, effective, and transparent campaign and lobbying audits.

For reference, the Commission's submissions to the Mayor's Senior Fellows program appear at Attachment 2.

Status: We understand that selections of departmental Senior Fellows were anticipated this spring, with fellowships to begin their year-long projects in September. We are unaware at this time of any decisions that have been made regarding placement of the coming year's Fellows.

Item: E-Filing Conversion Project

As detailed in our Blueprint for Accountability, the Commission is seeking funding to improve organizational efficiencies and strengthen public tools for meaningful transparency about government actions by establishing an integrated, searchable and downloadable framework for all Commission public disclosure programs.

Currently, the Form 700 e-filing system is used by elected officials, department heads, and commissioners that file Form 700 with the Ethics Commission. In FY 17-18, the Commission would make the Form 700 e-filing system available to designated filers that are required to file Form 700 with their respective City department. The system would allow departments to manage their own filers, but provide the Commission with a tool to monitor compliance City-wide. It would also provide the public with a central location to view the forms on the Commission's web site.

In FY 16-17, staff proposes adding three new forms to the Form 700 e-filing system: Sunshine Ordinance Declaration, Certificate of Ethics Training, and Gifts of Travel Report. This would allow City Officers to complete all their individual filing requirements in one electronic system.

In addition, we have proposed enhancing the campaign finance data services, to build an API to better connect the Commission's campaign finance data to the City's open data system. The API would provide more timely access to the data and marry the campaign finance reports with metadata about each election to provide context to the disclosures. Staff also intends to pursue better geocoding of the contribution data to permit research of financial activity within specific district boundaries. Staff intends to make the API available prior to the November 2018 election.

Status: On April 1, 2016, Commission staff presented the E-Filing Conversion Project to the Budget and Performance Sub-Committee of the Committee on Information Technology (COIT). COIT allocates funds for the startup costs of new City IT projects. The slide deck for our presentation to the Sub-committee appears at Attachment 3.

On April 14, 2016, the Sub-committee voted to recommend to the full COIT that the startup professional services and materials and supplies costs for our E-Filing Conversion Project be funded in full. The Sub-committee, however, did not recommend funding the one FTE we identified as critical to staffing the project. The full COIT will consider the recommendation in May.

We are continuing to pursue the one FTE for the project through the Mayor's budget process. As we previously identified in our Blueprint for Accountability, one Information Systems Business Analyst position is necessary to this project. Without this additional FTE, the Commission will not have the staffing resources to commence with the project.

Item: Policy and Investigative Staffing

In addition to the Information Systems Business Analyst position noted above, the Commission's proposed FY17 and 18 budget also identified the critical need to strengthen our organizational capacity in two other key areas: policy and enforcement.

POLICY. To deepen policy engagement and heighten compliance outreach to improve the effectiveness of laws within the Commission's jurisdiction, the Commission's budget proposes to create a dedicated Policy function which does not currently exist at the agency. A Senior Policy Analyst position and a Policy Analyst position would be specifically charged with providing broad based, timely, and understandable guidance on the laws. The focus of that work would be on understanding and conveying the practical application of the law, and provide compliance guidance to those whose activities are regulated by the city's ethics, lobbying, and campaign laws, among others.

Importantly, the two Policy positions would also be charged with conducting regular and rigorous policy analysis and evaluation. This is a function that does currently exist at the Commission. To assist the Commission, public, and City policymakers in ensuring that both existing and proposed laws are strong, workable and enforceable in practice, these positions are needed if City government reform laws are to be effective and most constructively address policy issues as they emerge.

ENFORCEMENT. To strengthen the Commission's capacity to fulfill its voter mandate for appropriate administrative enforcement of ethics, campaign finance, disclosure, and lobbying laws, including the effective resolution of Whistleblower and Sunshine complaints, the budget proposal also identifies the pressing need for additional investigative and enforcement resources. Absent additional resources, the Commission's will continue to lack the full capacity to handle its complaint and investigative workload with due timeliness. As a result, the existing backlog of items under preliminary review and complaints under active investigation will continue and likely deepen with the 2016 elections.

Status:

As discussions with the Mayor's budget team continue, we have provided additional information to that office in support of our request for these positions. As noted in our Blueprint for Accountability, performance indicators for any budget request are valuable to ensure that the Ethics Commission can track progress toward its established goals. They are also important to enable transparency to elected policymakers and the public so that they, too, can exercise appropriate oversight of the Commission's progress toward those goals.

Following on a commitment in our budget submission to ensure appropriate accountability measures could be in place with the beginning of the fiscal year, on April 8 we provided a detailed set of key performance indicators (KPIs) to the Mayor's Budget Office. These indicators of progress are ones we would anticipate using to provide accountability for each of the requested positions: Information Systems Business Analyst (Job Class 1052); Senior Policy Analyst (1823); Policy Analyst (1822); and Investigative Analyst (1822). A table detailing the identified KPIs for each position appears at Attachment 4.

I welcome the opportunity to answer questions you might have about this update or the ongoing budget process at the Commission's meeting next week.

Re: Ethics Commission Budget Recommendations for FY17 and FY18

Dear Mayor Lee:

It is my privilege as the Ethics Commission's recently appointed Executive Director to provide you with the attached Blueprint for Accountability, a summary of the Ethics Commission's budget proposal for Fiscal Years 2017 and 2018. As one of the 38 General Fund Departments selected by the Mayor's Budget Office to initiate a two-year budget cycle, the Ethics Commission appreciates the opportunity to reflect on and convey in this document the strategic priorities that will guide our work over the next two fiscal years.

Embraced by a unanimous vote of the Ethics Commission at its January 25, 2016 regular meeting, this Blueprint for Accountability details the investments we believe are needed to begin to equip the Ethics Commission with the resources required to fully achieve the broad voter mandate it has been given the responsibility to achieve. This proposed budget is designed to move the Ethics Commission's own work to the next level of effectiveness, accomplishment, and public trust. It also reflects a renewal of our agency-wide commitment to working creatively, collaboratively, and energetically in support of transparent and accountable government City-wide.

We appreciate your review and consideration of our budget request, and we look forward to working with you and your staff as the Commission's FY17 and FY18 budgets are developed.

Sincerely,

LeeAnn Pelham
Executive Director

Blueprint for Accountability

FY17 and FY18 Budget Recommendations for the San Francisco Ethics Commission

February 22, 2016

I. Introduction

In its search for its next Executive Director in the Fall of 2015, the San Francisco Ethics Commission identified several overarching priorities for the agency going forward:

- ✓ Organizational efficiencies: employing new structure, tools, and approaches that can better serve achievement of the Ethics Commission's mission;
- ✓ Effective enforcement: strengthening current structure and processes to ensure accountability for compliance with appropriate transparency and the most proactive, thorough, fair, timely, and consistent investigations and case resolution;
- ✓ Supporting compliance: providing enhanced guidance to a broad range of stakeholders to promote practical understanding of the laws and facilitate compliance; and
- ✓ Strengthened policy focus: initiating the development of sound policy and collaborating broadly to identify and address emerging issues through effective legislation and regulation.

This budget blueprint reflects this vision of the Commission's future and drives the core recommendation that the Commission must be right-sized to better align resources with its full Charter mission.<sup>1</sup>

It is also premised on staff work that is committed to continuous improvement.

Organizations that continuously improve use the challenge of emerging issues, expanded mandates, and new technology as important opportunities for change. Toward that end, Commission Staff are committed to improving the efficiency and effectiveness of existing resources through ongoing innovation, by working to simplify the complex, and by identifying new, more nimble processes, structures, and systems for the agency's work. As part of this effort, over the coming year the staff will work to

- assess existing structures and functions for needed improvements;
- examine what approaches in the organization are, or should be changing, and why; and
- identify operational interdependencies to better understand where more collaborative approaches, both internally and with external stakeholders, would benefit the delivery of Commission programs and services.

Ultimately, achieving the voters' directives requires political will, sufficient resources, and the right legal and structural frameworks to lead change and implement it effectively. This blueprint for accountability presents a strategic and aggressive set of budget recommendations necessary to enable the Ethics Commission to achieve its mission consistent with the voters' continuing strong mandate for both good and effective governance in the City and County of San Francisco.

II. Background and Context

In the past decade, issues confronting local government have become more complex and as public officials and employees pursue new and creative approaches to difficult public policy questions. Over this same period, the policy and political landscape for agencies that administer and enforce campaign finance, governmental ethics, lobbying regulation, and transparency laws have also continued to change.

In San Francisco, in just the past five years, three City and County Civil Grand Jury Reports<sup>2</sup> were issued that focus on the Ethics Commission’s own role and responsibilities, with each report raising a series of important questions about how the Commission should most effectively pursue its voters’ mandate for meaningful transparency and accountability in City and County government. Against this fluid and evolving backdrop, however, in the past decade the Ethics Commission’s annual operating budget and staffing have remained relatively level, as Chart 1 below illustrates.

Chart 1

For FY17, the Ethics Commission recommends a total operating budget of $3,394,954, and an FY18 operating budget of $3,659,457. This includes new funding requests of $656,046 for FY17 and $841,492 for FY18. When compared to the Commission’s FY16 operating budget of $2,738,908, the proposed FY17 operating budget represents a roughly 24 percent increase over current levels. While robust, these recommendations are necessary to begin to equip the Commission with the resources needed to fully achieve the broad voter mandate it has been charged with the responsibility to achieve. As such, the recommendations are designed to move the Ethics Commission’s own work to the next level of effectiveness, accomplishment, and public trust.

The priorities identified by the Commission to pursue these ends in FY17 and FY18 are detailed as new funding packages in the following section.

<sup>2</sup> See San Francisco’s Whistleblower Protection Ordinance Is In Need of Change, City and County of San Francisco Civil Grand Jury 2014-15, May 2015; Ethics in the City: Promise, Practice or Pretense, City and County of San Francisco Civil Grand Jury 2013-14, June 2014; and San Francisco Ethics Commission: The Sleeping Watch Dog, City and County of San Francisco Civil Grand Jury 2010-11.

IV. Accountability: Indicators of Performance and Progress

Performance indicators for priority projects are valuable to ensure that the Ethics Commission can track progress toward its established goals. They are also important to enable appropriate transparency to elected policymakers and the public so that they can exercise sufficient oversight of the Commission’s progress toward meeting those goals. Toward that end, Commission Staff are continuing to identify a range of accountability measures for all priority items, including, for example those shown in Attachment 2, to ensure appropriate accountability measures are in place with the beginning of the fiscal year.

Addendum: Background on Current Budget Components

The Ethics Commission’s current budget is comprised of two main components: an operating budget, discussed in the foregoing sections (also referred to as “non-grant funding”), and the Election Campaign Fund (“Fund”).

As a point of reference, for FY16, the Commission’s expenditures can be broken down as follows:

Table 1

Ethics Commission Budgeted Expenditures, by Category, FY16

Total Salaries	$	1,592,304

Election Campaign Fund (“Fund”). Established in the City’s Campaign Finance Reform Ordinance (“CFRO”). Under CFRO, the Fund is capped at a maximum of $7 million, and no more than 15 percent of the total amount of funds in the Fund for any given election may be used for administering the public financing program. CFRO section 1.138(b)(2). As of January, 2016, the balance of the Fund had reached its maximum. Staff projects that disbursements for the 2016 November election to be approximately $4,099,650. Allocations to the Fund are based on a formula of $2.75 per resident, unless the Fund has already reached its maximum.

Prop. C Funding. One other area of funding available to the Ethics Commission derives from Prop. C. Upon passage by the voters of Prop. C in November 2015, funding was allocated in the General Reserve for an electronic filing system for Expenditure Lobbyist disclosures, and for staff costs for education and outreach during the first year of the Expenditure Lobbyist program. While the $560,000 established for those purposes is accessible to the Ethics Commission (and will roll over if not used), those funds are not included in the Commission’s general operating budget.

Project Description

Historically, the Ethics Commission has not had a dedicated policy staff. This has blunted its capacity to fully and most effectively engage policymakers and the public in the development and evaluation of strong and enforceable policies. As the Commission begins a new organizational chapter and works to re-align resources to better meet this challenge, a Senior Fellow for Leading Policy Practices would accelerate improvement of the Commission's capacity to deliver on one of its most important mandates.

This project would undertake senior level policy work to provide the following deliverables:

1. a comprehensive review of city reform laws and a framework for regularly conducting effective policy work, gauged by:
  - establishment of baseline analytical methods for policy evaluation
  - improved use of data-driven analyses to asses/develop recommendations
  - heightened quantity and quality of empirical information for use in evaluating policy proposals and their merit
  - increased range of issues regularly assessed
2. implementating a strategic framework to engage a broad array of stakeholders and peer agencies in assessing and developing recommendations:

develop and facilitate a series of stakeholder roundtables as a precursor to:

- o convening a day-long 'Roadmap for Reform' policy summit including
- o a national and state leaders' forum to address issues surfaced by the Commission's assessment and offer insights to enhance effectiveness of recommendations

Why do you need a Fellow?

A Senior Fellow would play a vital role in accelerating achievement of a primary Commission goal: to strengthen effectiveness of City laws designed to curb undue influence of money in politics and support fair governmental decision making, by establishing leading practices at the Commission to examine current policies, assess emerging issues, evaluate policy gaps, and propose a comprehensive set of needed improvements, including improved use of data in policy analysis and formulation. By developing and implementing leading policy evaluation and engagement practices in the coming Senior Fellows cycle, the Commission will do much to advance its mission to ensure and sustain a framework of local political reform laws that is strong, workable, and effective.

A Senior Fellow for this project would be a valuable addition to the Commission's work in the coming year for the reasons stated above. In addition, this work would ensure timely outreach to the state's Fair Political Practices Commission on policy-related findings that may have a bearing on state laws as the FPPC undertakes its own review of the Political Reform Act in the coming year to identify needed improvements. Initiating this work now will take advantage of a unique opportunity to regularize interactions with state regulators going forward regarding the intersection of state and local policies, and their administration and enforcement.

A Fellow with the following experience and skills would likely provide the best match for the deliverables envisioned:

- Extensive legal and/or senior public policy analysis experience
- Policy evaluation experience, including facility with data analysis
- Report writing and presentation skills for public and policymaker audiences alike
- Group facilitation skills / public engagement experience
- Strong knowledge of campaigns and political reform
- Ability to remain politically neutral and impartial during his or her tenure as a Fellow

How would this Fellow be situated within your department?

This Fellow would work closely with and report directly to the Commission's Executive Director, LeeAnn Pelham.

Strengthening Accountability with Online Technology

Project Description

As the Ethics Commission modernizes its web platform in the coming year, an important opportunity exists to create improved user interfaces and a more robust user experience to support informing and engaging the public. At the same time, a critical goal of this effort is to strengthen accountability in local government by rigorously and effectively using technology to ease and effect improved compliance with the City's political reform laws. Toward that end, this project proposes to overhaul how compliance information is conveyed online, moving it from the mere presentation of information to enable engagement with information. It would create innovative new tools and resources, such as practical, interactive compliance guides designed specifically for consumption in a web- and social-media based environment.

As envisioned, this project would leverage demand for a more user-focused online experience to improve compliance across a range of programs. Building on the Commission's existing strong commitment to being a leading public disclosure agency, this project would expand the innovative use of technology to achieve the following:

1. an improved online presence for compliance materials, gauged by:
  - expanded awareness of resources available
  - heightened frequency of views/visits that engage the new tools creation and use of methods to elicit immediate and longer-term feedback on materials and how they can be further improved upon

2. heightened compliance awareness, gauged by:

an uptick in compliance contacts seeking additional information or guidance following a view/visit online more timely compliance contacts/guidance sought (i.e., prior to deadlines or actions contemplated) improved compliance

3. improved Commission understanding of user needs and services desired, gauged by:

development of method to benchmark and regularly assess feedback provided following online view/visit implementation of benchmarking method implementation of regular feedback loop for assessment of service delivery

Why do you need a Fellow?

Recognizing the value of both good data and of transforming data into meaningful public information, the Ethics Commission has been a keen champion of the City's open data initiative, and has initiated steps to use data visualization for improved public disclosure. Limited existing IT staff resources are, of necessity, committed to that ongoing work and to the Commission's E-filing Conversion Project and web modernization priorities in the year ahead. A Senior Fellow would ensure the expertise and senior project management experience needed to effectively coordinate implementation of new online compliance resources in sync with those developments.

As envisioned, the scope of the project would include deliverables such as:

enhanced compliance guides to engage candidates, their treasurers, consultants, and donors in understanding and complying with City laws.

new step-by-step tools for understanding permit consultant and major developer requirements interactive, practical FAQs and materials on a range of topics, such as:

Audits: What to Expect When You're Expecting One

The Administrative Enforcement Process: Your Right to Know

Beyond Form 700: Tools to Avoid Conflicts of Interests

Lobbying in the City: What to Know

If You Go: Navigating Ethics & the Revolving Door

A Fellow with the following experience and skills would likely provide the best match for the deliverables envisioned:

Experience assessing and designing online information with a user-experience focus

Technical writing skills – translating technical and legal documents into understandable terms for layperson audience

Graphic design orientation and experience that creatively visualizes and organizes layout of information

Strong writing and communication skills

Experience developing online tools to gather and assess user feedback

Project management skills

Writing – translating technical or legal documents into understandable terms for layperson audience
Familiarity with ADA compliance in web environment

The Fellow would also have regular interaction with the following Ethics Commission staff:

Information Technology Officer, Steven Massey
Assistant Deputy Executive Director, Shaista Shaikh
Education/Outreach Officer, Pat Petersen

Additional interaction would be anticipated with a representative selection of individuals, TBD, whose experience external to our agency as compliance material users will help inform project deliverables.

Audit Effectiveness/"T3" Innovations

Project Status

✓ New

In progress

Project Description

This project seeks a seasoned professional experienced in managing and evaluating audits to improve the Commission's capacity for timely, thorough and effective campaign and lobbying audits. Historically challenged in concluding audits in the timeliest manner to ensure the timeliest resolution of audit findings, the Commission has recently virtually eliminated its audit backlog. With a relatively new lobbying audit program underway, the Commission proposes to use a Senior Fellow to assess current audit methods and approaches, develop a strategic audit plan for improvements, and implement identified recommendations. Innovations would include new audit tools, standardized templates, and clear timelines for achieving more efficient, effective and transparent audits.

This project would yield program improvements without sacrificing audit thoroughness or quality, and would include the following deliverables:

1. new or improved compliance tools for use during campaigns or pre-audit period (check lists, electronic aggregation tables, other) and new, standardized audit templates for use during audit (entrance / exit meetings, document requests, testing, workpaper documentation), gauged by:
  - increased savings from reduced hours required to onboard new auditors
  - improved consistency in application of procedures and policies during periods of attrition increased savings from reduced hours needed to document and review audit findings reduction in number of material findings increased savings from reduced hours auditees need to respond to audit findings

2. standardized time frames and improved predictability for all audit phases, gauged by:

reduced costs in planning for audits more nimble re-deployment of auditors during non-peak phases

3. new or improved audit guides to reinforce audit understanding and procedures:

City Campaigns: A User's Guide to a Clean Audit
 Lobbying Audits: What to Expect When You're Expecting One

4. new transparency approaches, including data visualization to broaden public understanding about audit purpose, status and findings

Why do you need a Fellow?

A fundamental mandate for the Ethics Commission, audits of campaign and lobbyist compliance with applicable laws are a cornerstone of ensuring accountability in campaign and lobbying in the City. Complete and timely audits provide an important public accounting of candidates' and lobbyists' activities, and ensure appropriate resolution of material findings through enforcement action, when warranted. Audits help ensure the public that applicable rules are applied fairly, consistently, and thoroughly, and that those whose practices materially fail to comply with the requirements of the law will be held to account for those findings.

Having recently reduced its campaign audit backlog, and with an inaugural year of lobbying audits nearing completion, the Commission's audit director (who also functions as the Commission's Assistant Deputy Executive Director) and the Commission's recently-appointed Executive Director are at a critical juncture to initiate a self-assessment of the department's audit programs. Overall, however, the Commission's limited staffing resources and competing organizational demands make achieving this key project unlikely within the next year. A Senior Fellow to develop a strategic audit plan, including new audit tools, templates, and timeframes, would provide critically needed hours - and the unique knowledge, skills, and abilities to manage this vital project -to enable the Commission to implement needed and lasting improvements in its core audit work.

A Fellow with the following experience and skills would likely provide the best match for the deliverables envisioned:

Significant experience conducting, managing, and evaluating audits and audit programs
 Writing skills, including preparation of reader-friendly audit reports
 Strong facilitation and listening skills; ability to elicit information and ideas across communication styles
 Effective presentation skills
 Familiarity with campaigns and political reform
 Ability to remain politically neutral and impartial during tenure as Fellow

How would this Fellow be situated within your department?

This Fellow would work closely with and report directly to the Commission's Executive Director, LeeAnn Pelham.

The Fellow would also have regular interaction with the following Ethics Commission staff:

Assistant Deputy Executive Director, Shaista Shaikh

Information Technology Officer, Steven Massey

Commission Auditors and Investigators, as needed, for input to understand current methods, approaches, challenges, and ideas for improvement

Additional interaction, as warranted, would be anticipated with the following:

Candidates and lobbyists who have been audited; other agencies (e.g. City Attorney, District Attorney) that have used Commission audits; other stakeholders that may regularly use or have expressed an interest in Commission audits and their findings
